

ABOUT

IEBC is a nonprofit organization dedicated to helping education stakeholders — community colleges, universities, K-12 school systems, employers, and others — use coaching, collaboration, and data to make informed decisions and craft solutions that dramatically increase student success. We focus on two primary areas: Caring Campus and Data Use and customize evidence-based solutions to help our client partners address today's most pressing issues.

VISION AND MISSION

IEBC's vision of educators empowered to help all students reach their goals connects to our mission to drive improvements in racial equity and student success through student connectedness and making data useful, usable and actionable.

IEBC is dedicated to helping shift our nation's recognition of pervasive racism and inequities, which continue to result in the loss of life and the lack of opportunity. IEBC is committed to ensuring all students reach their highest potential and have the opportunity to fulfill their dreams by creating a solid foundation on which educators are empowered to help all students reach their learning goals.

HISTORY

IEBC was founded in 2008 by Dr. Brad C. Phillips. The Caring Campus program was launched in 2018 and has expanded since then to serve one million students at more than 100 community colleges across the country. Dr. Phillips, IEBC president and CEO, and Jordan Horowitz, IEBC chief operating officer, are authors of the book Creating a Data-Informed Culture in Community Colleges published by Harvard Education Press in 2017.

OUR WORK

IEBC engages in two core activities: Caring Campus and Data Use.

Through Caring Campus, we coach college faculty and staff to implement research-based behaviors that increase student connectedness, which leads to increased student success for all. IEBC has qualitative and quantitative evidence that demonstrates the impact of Caring Campus.

With IEBC's Data Use work, we help educators and organizations make sense of data and turn it into useful, usable and actionable information for making decisions that lead to improvements in racial equity and increased student success for all.

Supported by colleges, districts, state, regional and national organizations, including philanthropic foundations, IEBC deeply appreciates the support of partners and funders whose shared commitments make this work possible.
